Fact of the matter is: If the audit just showed that the district needed better policies and procedures then the Supt and board members would have said so right off the bat this evening. Instead, they said NOTHING! Which means they are in big TROUBLE!

Jolie, you are referencing that page 174 or something from a deposition like it means something, and guess what? NOBODY CARES!

They got the bad news today, and in two weeks it gets even worse, get over it.

:) Agreed, StevenB904.

Watchman, specifically what is crashing down? In what way has a former superintendent gotten the better of Doug Mann, specifically?

Unless of course you are as specifics-averse as the former superintendent, who was unable to come up with one specific thing anyone ever did wrong. At all.

You are pretty confident about my identity. Are the rest of your claims based on such solid evidence? How sure ARE you that I am Mary Anne Flipppo? Do tell.

Watchman, Superintendent Mendenhall also refused to comment on the audit. Does that mean he is in big TROUBLE?

Are all your assumptions this well thought out? You're pretty defensive about page 174. That you, Jim?

Watchman, what's the bad news? According to Ronda, there are no charges filed against BA Schools, and there is no reason for their attorney to be present in the meetings. That would seem to imply that nothing in the audit indicates the need for any charges against BA Schools.

Are you saying Ronda doesn't know what she's talking about? Are you saying there really are going to be charges against BA Schools? What are they, since you are so sure? What's the bad news?

What's the bad news, and what makes you think the news is bad - specifically? Do you have real information, or are you just making more ridiculous assumptions? Do tell.

Anyone can post taunts and vague criticism. What do you have to offer that actually provides useful information?

Ok, 612/Maryanne:

What are you going to do when Walta drops you in 2 1/2 weeks? Hope that Mendenhall can hide your legal defense in the school budget?

Report Comment | Ignore User

612, Broken Arrow (1 day ago)

The way I understand it, the legal defense for the board members is not paid by the District.

What makes you think Walta will resign from the board members' defense? Specifics please.

Why would Mendenhall hide anything?

Also, what is the bad news? In what way did a former superintendent get the better of Doug Mann? What specifically is crashing down? What solid evidence do you have that indicates that I am Mary Anne Flipppo - solid enough that you are willing to post it online and risk looking like a fool if you can't back it up? Keep in mind - I know who I am. You don't.

Also, does Superintendent Mendenhall's refusal to discuss the audit mean he's in big trouble too, since you said that's what it meant for the board members? Do you think there are going to be charges against BA schools, even though Ronda seems to think there won't? What will the charges be? Specifically, since Sisney couldn't help us out at all there.

What useful information do you have?

ba watchman, (1 day ago)

to answer you:

- 1) yes, board members have insurance to pay for legal stuff
- 2) Walta is over her head and will tell NAICO that she can't handle this. Plus the audit will cancel the coverage of some board members
- 3) I give the benefit to Mendenhall to realize that the board can't handle the politics of firing a supt for at least 5 years and he can do what he wants.

Oh, and the "fashionable" hats don't go over well at Broken Arrow School Board Meetings

612, Broken Arrow (1 day ago)

So what specific criminal acts do you think the board members engaged in? Sisney couldn't come up with any - can you?

In what way will the audit cancel coverage of some board members? Because of what?

Since I am not Mary Anne Flippo, which you claim to know as fact like you claim to know other unproven things, I really don't put much stock in anything you say. You're going to have to do better. I don't have any idea what the hat statement means.

We really don't anything about the audit until it is released to the public. The school board just listen to a presentation of the auditor's findings. They do not have a copy of the audit either. I am the lawyer was present to help take notes.

Is "works in progress" the public relations firm that Dougie was talking about?

I want to point to Gadfy that Dr. Mendenhall was official placed into the position on July 1 and he has nothing to do with business pratrices of the BA School audit. Maybe you should go question Dr. Sisney at Sperry Schools and the retired Dr. Gerber.
